Top Rated by Trusted Peer Review Sites

Customer reviews matter. According to Bright Local, 84% of people trust reviews they read online as much as personal recommendations. However, there are many 3rd party review sites, some less credible than others, and it can be daunting to know where to begin. That is why it is important to gather social proof from trustworthy sources with reliable, authentic customer feedback from verified users.

Optimized for content quality and data integrity, G2 Crowd and TrustRadius are two of the most trusted review sites for business software, helping buyers make better product decisions based on unbiased and insightful reviews.

“Not only is it simpler to deliver compliance training to different units, but we also experienced a 670% increase in completions for one training from the year prior to implementing Cornerstone.”

“When San Jacinto first adopted Cornerstone, faculty and staff were hesitant—resistant to change and learning a new, complex system. All were pleasantly surprised by how simple and accessible Cornerstone is—making not only learning but also annual performance reviews, more engaging for everyone.”

Brandi Rhodes
Manager of Employment,
San Jacinto Community College

“What stood out for us was how easy Cornerstone was to use. It’s been fantastic. I can show someone how to use Cornerstone quickly and then they can just start using it.”

John Bogdan
Director of Employment,
Boston College
